Hopp Cross-Examined in Pickford-Dugan Trias

Ferdinand Hopp was under xamination today in the trial of Thomas H. Pickford and William J. Dugan, indicted on a charge of conspiracy and attempting to bribe Hopp as a witness in a civil suit, before Justice Stafford, in Criminal Court, No. 1. Attorney H. Prescott Gatley, for the efense, conducted the cross-examinaion questioning Hopp not only about he alleged attempt to bribe him, but also as to testimony given in the civil suit of James Hudson against Pickford. There were arguments this afternoon regarding the admissibility of testimony given in connection with the Hudson-Pickford suit. The court ruled that here would be no understanding among the attorneys as to this testimony, but there would be a ruling by the court as the evidence is effored. No trace of John H. Walter, who was ointly indicted with Pickford and Dugan, has yet been found, although deputy marshals have made a search for him. Walter was in court when the trial began, but disappeared next day.
